Shocked mum speaks of her carjack terror

A MOTHER who was dragged from her car and robbed after going out to pick up her son from a friend's party has this week spoken of her terrifying ordeal.

The woman, who has asked not to be identified, was driving her silver Peugeot 306 along Priory Avenue in Old Harlow in the early hours of Sunday when she was forced to stop because a group of people were fighting in the road.

Someone then opened the door of the car and dragged her out of the vehicle, threatening her before stealing her mobile phone.

The group who were fighting then drove off in the car, leaving the shaken mum on the roadside.

Police who carried out a search of the area later arrested five men on suspicion of burglary and robbery.

The damaged car was then found abandoned in Collins Meadow.

This week, the 58-year-old victim told the Star: "I feel a bit shaken and a lot worse now than I did then. I'm going to see my doctor because I feel really funny about it all.

"I didn't know if they had knives or anything like that so when they started swearing at me and making demands for my phone I just did what I was told.

"It's a very scary thing to happen, especially at that hour . . ."

Victim's mother-in-law

"One man was swearing at me and telling me to hand over my phone and by that time the others had all surrounded the car.

She added: "I only went out to pick my son up from a party. I didn't bring my dog because I usually get invited in and I didn't want to leave her howling in the car.

"It's the only time I didn't bring her and I know she would have gone for them, but for all I know they could have had weapons and my dog would have ended up hurt.

"The police told me the car has been damaged, too, but it's in a pound at the moment so I haven't seen it."

The incident took place between 1.30-1.45am.

The victim's mother-in-law added: "It's a very scary thing to happen, especially at that hour. Luckily she was not hurt by the group but the whole thing could have been much worse than it was."

"She was very shaken and this is a very upsetting thing to happen, but we're just glad she's okay."

Four of the five men who were arrested appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on Monday charged with burglary and/or robbery.

The fifth man was released on police bail until Thursday, June 27.

Smoker fined £700 for dropping butt

A SMOKER has been forced to cough up almost £700 after being caught discarding a cigarette in Harlow town centre.

Lisa Wingrove, of Longbanks, was spotted tossing the butt to the floor by a Harlow Council community safety officer on December 7 last year. After refusing to pick it up, she was handed a fixed penalty notice of £80.

Despite receiving several reminders, Ms Wingrove failed to pay the fine and as a result the council took the matter to Chelmsford County Court.

The defendant failed to turn up to last Thursday's hearing, but the council successfully applied to prove the matter in her absence.

Ms Wingrove was fined £200 and ordered to pay the authority's legal costs of £497, plus a victim surcharge of £20.

Speaking after the hearing, a council spokesman said: "Keeping the streets clean is important to residents so we will take action against anyone who makes our town untidy."

"There is no excuse to drop litter - including cigarettes - when there are plenty of litter bins around, especially in the town centre."

Civic lecture on pioneering doc

THE life and work of pioneering Harlow doctor and former Labour MP Stephen Taylor will come under the microscope during a lecture by local historian Ron Bill tonight (Thursday).

Organised by Harlow Civic Society, the talk at the Gibberd Gallery in the Civic Centre will explore Lord Taylor's pivotal role in the formation of the town's groundbreaking industrial health service, which has since become the blueprint for similar schemes worldwide.

A short 1958 film about the impact of the service will also be screened.

The evening begins at 7.30pm and admission costs £4 (£2 for civic society members) on the door.

BARKING MAD: Troy Mead has branded the council's refusal to allow shrubs obscuring the sign to be cut back as "farcical"

Row erupts over sports club sign

THE owners of a Harlow sports centre claim their business is being damaged by Harlow Council's refusal to cut back shrubbery obscuring the club's new roadside signage.

Councillors granted planning permission for the sign to be erected outside Paringdon Sports Club last month - only for the authority to then block co-owners Troy Mead and Dave Hancock from trimming back trees and bushes concealing it from view.

They had hoped the sign, which has been put up inside the club's grounds off Paringdon Road, would attract new customers, but now fear it has been an expensive mistake.

Mr Mead told the Star: "It's an absolute farce."

"Councillors were happy to let us splash out on the new sign, but

CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

when we asked for permission to cut back the trees and shrubs on the other side of the fence we were refused.

"What's the point of it if no-one can see it? We made it quite clear the shrubs needed to be trimmed for the signage to have any impact."

Mr Mead claimed the authority's decision had given the club's competitors - which include the council-backed Harlow Leisurezone - an "unfair advantage".

"You don't see Leisurezone have any problems trying to advertise their business, there are signs everywhere," he added. "But when we ask for the same treatment we're given short shrift. It's crazy."

But Councillor Phil Waite, the council's cabinet member for environment, claimed the club's planning application had not made it clear enough that the foliage would need to be cut back.

"Reducing trees was not part of the advertisement consent application and the sign's location was never discussed with the council before the application was submitted," he said.

"The trees are in good health and are an important part of the landscape. The council does not want to see any further cutting back of trees in this area given the amount of tree reduction that has already taken place and it is also unlikely to be supported by local residents."

"It is unfortunate that the club did not talk to the council before putting itself in this position."

Police leaflets to warn of 'bogus cop' phone scam

POLICE investigating a telephone fraud where elderly and vulnerable people are tricked into giving bank details to a man posing as a police officer have launched a leaflet campaign warning West Essex residents about the con.

Almost 30 thefts and attempted thefts have been reported since the offences first came to light in January.

Victims are telephoned by fraudsters who pose as police officers. Various stories are used to trick the person into thinking they are the victim of bank account fraud and often a courier is sent to collect bank and credit cards. In some cases valuable items have also been taken for "safe keeping".

Thousands of leaflets warning of the scam will be handed out to elderly people. They will be distributed by uniformed officers at various supermarkets and other busy sites.

People who have received any suspicious calls but have not informed police or have any information on the incidents should call Brentwood CID proactive team on 101.

READERSLETTERS

SIR, I agree with Robert Halfon there are issues that need attending to with regard to our immigration policy (Star, April 4). But before he welcomes the tightening of the system, the cutting of access to benefits and the clamping down on health tourism, I think he would first of all do well to reflect on his own Jewish ancestry.

Presumably he and his more immediate forebears are only in this country themselves because Jewish immigration to England was lifted, not tightened, in 1826. And he is only able to be our MP because the Jewish Emancipation Act of 1858 allowed Jews to become Members of Parliament. Surely he does not want to deny to others the freedoms he himself has enjoyed?

It is so easy to jump on this popular immigration bandwagon and present a false picture. The reality is that of the two million immigrants who have come to Britain in the past 10 years, fewer than one per cent have claimed any benefits whatsoever. And for every immigrant who is here for 'health tourism' reasons, there are hundreds of thousands of immigrants who keep our National Health Service going.

Whilst it is true that we don't want to be a soft touch or promote a something-for-nothing culture, neither do we want an overly restrictive immigration policy. Cultural diversity is one of the strengths of our nation and, overall, immigration has helped our economy rather than hindered it.

Too many unnecessary car journeys in town

SIR, Your correspondent E. Vine makes many valid points concerning road improvements, prompted by the announcement of modifications to the Clock Tower roundabout at the junction of the A414 and Second Avenue (Letters, April 4).

It is a given that so-called improvements attract more traffic, so that following a short honeymoon period of improved traffic flow things get back to normal and traffic queues are the norm once more.

Whilst I accept many of his points about pedestrian crossings and underpasses, I cannot let them pass without comment.

Firstly, there are too many unnecessary car journeys in the town, for example the transporting of children across town to the school of their choice when it would be sensible for them to walk or cycle to their local school, as originally planned. I know that this is unlikely to ever happen again but it is a significant cause of congestion, not to mention, road rage, childhood obesity and general ill health.

Secondly, the underpass on First Avenue is closed during the construction of houses on the old pool site and will re-open. It is a poor design as it has no sight lines from the approaches into the underpass itself. This will not change and CCTV surveillance is an expensive white elephant.

In this regard I am a firm believer in reducing speed limits in Harlow and providing more pedestrian crossings at surface level. Well-designed underpasses are good but they take up a lot of space, and they only work if pedestrians and cyclists are forced to use them by the provision of fencing to corral people into them. This makes them expensive, unsightly and encourages motorists to believe that the highway is theirs and theirs alone.

By reducing speed limits in the town to 40, 30 and 20mph as appropriate, more people would be encouraged to walk and cycle, thereby reducing the need for more roads.

Finally, I'm sure Mr Vine would agree that the Clock Tower roundabout improvements are just another phase of the inevitable dualling of the A414 to Edinburgh Way. This ties in with the Essex County Council study concerning the construction of a route through Harlow via Gilden Way – not round it – to a new junction on the M11. The prospect of proper northern continuation of the A414 from Eastwick to a new M11 junction is fading fast!

John Curry
Old Orchard, Harlow

Southern bypass will solve traffic problems

SIR, Further to my letter about money being wasted on road improvements, I have been reminded that the M11 was routed on the wrong side of town.

Long ago it was proposed that Second Avenue should be widened to form a dual carriageway to cut through the heart of the town in order to solve the problem of congestion due to east-west through traffic and of workers try to reach the town centre and Pinnacles.

The idea was strongly opposed and shelved. However, might the 'improvements' to the Clock Tower roundabout and road just be a sign that the original idea is being stealthily resurrected and we can expect the next step will be to dual the rest of Second Avenue?

There is a better solution. The problem would be solved by a southern bypass from the existing M11 junction to the Eastwick area. Such a road would facilitate access to the business/industrial areas at Pinnacles and the town centre, divert east-west traffic out of town and prevent any traffic from the proposed housing development at the Lutton Priory area from impacting on the town.

It would be a one-step solution, solving a host of problems and could progress without the congestion and waste of money of the step-by-step piecemeal non solution exemplified by the Clock Tower improvements.

E. Vine
Fenton Grange, Harlow

Budget for councillors' allowances was raised

SIR, I feel Cllr Mike Danvers is being somewhat disingenuous in his letter about councillors' allowances (Star, April 4).

There was an increase in the budget for members allowances which was approved at full council on February 7. It went up from £180,900 to £182,230. There was no such increase in the Conservative budget.

In answer to a question at the full council meeting of March 21, the council leader said, "The reasons for the increase are – (b) a contingency in the members allowance budget to make provisions should there have been an increase of one per cent in 2013/14."

Clearly there was the possibility of an increase in allowances for some or all councillors, otherwise why did they approve the contingency in the budget?

If there was never an intention to increase allowances, why did they include the contingency?

Their denials only compound their dishonesty, for it is a worse offence to collect tax you have no intention to spend! It would appear Labour panicked at being found out by Conservative due diligence.

Each councillor receives an annual allowance of £4,270. In addition, there are special responsibility allowances paid to councillors who have various positions. These are paid on top of the basic allowance; a portfolio holder like Cllr Danvers will receive a total of £7,270 per annum – somewhat more than the 'less than £5,000' he refers to in his letter.

Just as Labour deny responsibility for the Government's deficit, so they deny their intended increase in councillors' allowances.

It just goes to show you can't trust

Labour with money.

Cllr Simon Carter (Conservative)
Mark Hall Moors, Harlow

I'm prepared to stand up and be counted

SIR, So Conservative councillor Guy Mitchinson was "shocked" a Labour councillor supported the construction of 2,000 homes and industrial units (Letters, March 28). Well, I was that councillor and I stand up to be counted.

Harlow Council has more than 4,000 people on its waiting list and I welcome a local contribution to our housing problem if it includes social housing for local people.

The housing crisis which the ConDem government is at least partially trying to resolve is now facing opposition from local Tory councillors. Their 'not in my backyard' statement is typical of the local Conservative councillor.

The present trend is for certain landlords who own properties to divide rooms with plasterboard, thus making a two-bedroom into a four-bedroom. This exploitation charges rabbit hutch conditions for charges of £100 per week per room.

The present Government has presided over our economy for nearly three years and we have seen unemployment rocket.

We need more jobs nationally and locally, and if these developers bring jobs to Harlow people when so much is closing down then I welcome the proposals.

Cllr Dennis Palmer (Labour)
Lower Meadow, Harlow

There are many things that can help with ME

SIR, Last week's front page story about the young schoolboy suffering from debilitating ME is very sad, but home tuition is not necessarily the answer.

His mum says that one day he is very active and the next he can't get out of bed. She also says he has returned to school for 1½ days.

With ME you have to carefully balance your activities and a whole day would be far too much. That's why he is so tired after having an active day. It would be better to be in school every day but for only a few (or even one) hours. It will also be more conducive to his learning.

The constant weariness can lead to depression and this is where having a routine and change of scenery can help.

Mum may have been told there is no cure but there are many things you can do to help ME (supplements, massage rest and gentle exercise) and there are some good local practitioners (not GPs) who can help advise on these.

Many sufferers return to a good level of wellbeing; I did. This young man needs support and encouragement to get better and lead a normal life or he will be stuck with this forever.

A phenomenon within a whirlwind: our MPs' views on the Iron Lady

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

DEPENDING on your politics, she was either the great reformer who dragged Britain out of an economic black hole, or the scourge of the poor and vulnerable who destroyed social cohesion and killed off UK industry.

But following the death on Monday of Margaret Thatcher at the age of 87, there was at least one thing supporters and critics of the former Conservative Prime Minister could agree on - that she was one of the most influential yet divisive politicians ever to have taken office.

Leading local tributes to the Iron Lady was Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who described Baroness Thatcher as "one of our greatest Prime Ministers".

"Truly great people come along once a generation and Margaret Thatcher was one of our greatest Prime Ministers," he told the Star.

"Mrs Thatcher made Britain a power in the world, reformed our economy, established popular capitalism and enabled millions of lower earners to purchase their own council homes under Right to Buy. She was a real One Nation Conservative.

"She was a huge influence on my own politics and was one of the reasons I first decided to become a Conservative. Her influence on the Conservative Party as a whole is almost unparalleled."

Mr Halfon also paid tribute to Baroness Thatcher on the BBC's Newsnight programme on Tuesday in an interview filmed inside the Harvey Centre.

Jerry Hayes, who served as Harlow's Tory MP during most of Baroness Thatcher's reign as PM, hailed her as a "phenomenon within a whirlwind".

Writing on his blog, Mr Hayes said: "The truth of the matter is that Thatcher was not the ogre who despised the poor and ground their faces into the dirt as she slashed public expenditure to the bone.

"And nor was she some sainted figure who could do no wrong. She was a determined, single-minded woman who tapped directly into the aspirations of ordinary people.

"Her real legacy is that she changed the way Britain thought about itself and the way the world thought about us."

He added: "It was a privilege to have known her although I won't pretend that it was always easy."

But Stan Newens, who was starting his third and final term as Labour MP for Harlow when Baroness Thatcher came to power in 1979, said her politics had "divided a nation".

"Of course it is sad when anyone dies, but I have always been totally opposed to everything she stood for," he said.

"Her insistence on privatisation has led to huge profiteering, her sell-off of council homes has contributed to today's desperate housing shortage and her flawed belief that the City of London could support the entire country financially led to the death of our traditional manufacturing base and closure of our coal mines.

"Far from building up Britain she in fact helped create the crisis in which the country now finds itself."

The Star was unable to contact former Labour MP Bill Rammell for his reaction to the news of Baroness Thatcher's death.

Groups given share of county cash windfall

TWO charity groups in Harlow have received a financial boost in the latest round of grants from the Essex Millennium Fund and Essex County Council's Chairman's Fund.

Fieldes Fun Charity and Performing Arts in Traditional African & Caribbean Cultures (PATACC) were both awarded sums to help them continue their work in the town.

PATACC, which organises workshops and performances in African arts with the aim to help social integration, received £1,000 from the Chairman's Fund. The money will go towards the costs of organising events in Harlow to celebrate Black History Month.

Fieldes Fun Charity received £3,984 which it will use on an accessible boating project for disabled people in Harlow and Nazeing.

The project will help people with special needs enjoy boat trips on the Rivers Lea and Stort.

A total of more than £66,000 was presented to 24 Essex-based charities and voluntary organisations.

Staff 'over the moon' as town HMV shop is saved

THE Harlow branch of HMV is one of 132 that have been saved from closure after restructuring specialist Hilco struck up a deal to save the home entertainment chain.

Hilco, which already owns HMV Canada, has announced that it has bought HMV for an as yet undisclosed figure - though the deal is believed to have been worth around £50m.

The chain went into administration earlier this year and 66 stores, which employed around 930 staff, were closed across the UK.

The HMV sale could save up to 2,500 jobs and means that the Harlow store in the Water Gardens will stay open.

Mandy Pierson, assistant manager at the Harlow branch, said staff were "over the moon".

"It is fantastic news and all the staff are over the moon that our jobs are safe," she told the Star.

"It would have been a shame for Harlow to lose HMV, which is such a fantastic store.

"We're very happy."

Golden legacy of bus garage in its 50th year

LOOKING at Harlow's heavily congested roads today, it's hard to imagine a time when most of the town's residents didn't own a car.

But back in the 1950s and '60s it was a different story, with many relying on public transport to get from A to B.

As such, it was imperative that the New Town's bus services were kept running smoothly - a real headache for Harlow Development Corporation as most routes were originally run from Epping.

But that all changed in May 1963 when London Transport opened the town's first dedicated bus garage on Fourth Avenue, where it remains to this day.

Yet although services undoubtedly improved as a result, the new garage wasn't

CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsexsexnews.co.uk quite the panacea HDC hoped it would be.

Continuing problems with the reliability and frequency of services persisted, and even led New Town masterplanner Sir Frederick Gibberd to concede that the town's bus network was "one of the corporation's least satisfactory attempts to achieve a good service for Harlow residents".

The garage has nevertheless stood the test of time and is now one of the few former London Transport county area garages still in operation.

And as it approaches its 50th anniversary next month, the Amersham & District Motorbus Society has asked for Nostalgia's help in contacting some of the depot's original staff ahead of a vintage bus day on May 5.

Co-organiser Keith Valla said: "Harlow is now one of a handful of former London Transport county area garages still standing and being used still as a garage."

"It would be nice if some former London Transport bus crews from the Harlow garage could attend on the day as we celebrate its opening 50 years ago."

Featuring 20 vintage buses from the 1950s and '60s, the event will offer passengers free rides on routes operated from Harlow garage when it first opened.

Timetables and programmes will be available to buy from Harlow Bus Station from next week.

On a roll with Harlow's first skating club

IT wasn't quite the era of the roller disco, but that's not to say roller skating wasn't popular in the 1960s - as shown by this group of enthusiasts posing in Harlow's Moot Hall.

The photograph, which was taken in 1960 and originally printed in local historian George Taylor's wonderful book of archive photos, proves the sport was alive and well in the New Town as long as 20 years before the craze reached its peak in the early '80s.

It also highlights the sheer diversity of activities once offered at Harlow's first dedicated community centre, which has hosted everything from dog obedience classes to bakery groups over the years.

UKIP go all out to win seats in county election

THE UK Independence Party is hoping to capitalise on growing Euroscepticism as it looks to build further momentum at next month's Essex County Council elections.

The final list of candidates for the poll on May 2 has now been published and for the first time ever UKIP will be contesting all four Harlow seats.

The party believes its anti-EU message will strike a chord with voters concerned that "open-door immigration" is crippling local services.

But it will have to see off opposition from a full complement of Labour, Conservative and Liberal Democrat candidates as well as representatives from The Green Party and the newly-formed Trade Unionists & Socialists Against Cuts.

Among those standing for UKIP is Mark Gough, a former two-term Harlow councillor who defected from the Conservatives last year.

He told the Star this week: "Like many others, I have become increasingly disillusioned with the Conservative-led Government and the sheer arrogance of some senior cabinet members."

"With so few differences between the Tories, Labour and the Liberal Democrats, people are

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

starting to wake up to the fact that UKIP are the only party who can offer a serious, sensible alternative which can affect real change on the issues that matter to them."

UKIP has been on something of an upward curve over the past year, and scored a symbolic victory over the Tories at last month's Eastleigh by-election after beating the Conservative candidate into third place.

Now, alongside fellow candidates Bill Pryor - himself a former Tory councillor - former Labour council candidate Dan Long and Jerry Crawford, Mr Gough hopes the party can inflict further blows to its competitors by taking Harlow's four county council seats from Labour and the Tories.

"We're getting new members every week," he said. "We are the party in the ascendancy and the fact we are contesting every seat in Essex just shows how seriously we are taking this election."

SAFETY FIRST: Primary school pupils with Harlow Council's Ray Matthews and Mick Jenkins of Kier Harlow

Crucial safety lessons for pupils

ALMOST 1,000 schoolchildren had their safety skills put to the test when they took part in Harlow's annual Crucial Crew event.

Year six pupils participated in a number of interactive scenarios which required them to make decisions about fire safety, road safety and personal safety when out and about.

The event was co-ordinated by Harlow Council and sponsored by Kier Harlow and Harlow Education Consortium.

Kier Harlow operations director John Phillips said: "We are proud to sponsor and take part in such an important event."

"Kier is committed to providing local children with essential information to help keep them safe."

Councillor Emma Toal, cabinet member for youth & citizenship, added: "The Crucial Crew experience raises awareness of issues relating to personal safety at a time when children will start to become more independent and be out much more, often without supervision."

"What children learn will help keep themselves and others safe in the future."

Town's first Muslim Scout group is sworn in

JUMPING FOR JOY: The Al Ghazi pack celebrate after taking their Cub promises and receiving their scarves

HARLOW'S first Muslim Cub Scout group is officially up and running after its nine founder members were sworn in.

Youngsters in the newly-formed Al Ghazli Pack took the Scout Promise at the group's headquarters in Harlow Islamic Centre before being handed their scarves and badges.

Cub Scout leader Zia Rehman said the children had already learned an enormous amount in their short time as Cubs.

"We are very proud to be volunteering with the Scouts," he said. "It has been a great success so far and the Muslim community has taken to it really well."

"The Cubs have learnt an enormous amount already and we love what Scouting is bringing to us."

"As leaders, we are also learning a great deal and we love mixing with other Scout groups in the area and making new friends."

"We are given the opportunity to share our culture with other groups and have already had another Harlow group come and visit the Mosque where we hold our meetings."

The Cubs attended a meeting last week with 85 others to work towards their scientist badge.

Aminah Hamid (10), said: "I love the Cubs because I get to learn new things and go and explore properly outside."

A HARLOW musician is hoping to drum up support for his upcoming missionary work in Africa with a fundraising concert.

T.J. Weekes, from Old Harlow, has organised the musical event to raise £600 of his £1,600 target for his month-long stint as a volunteer with Youth With A Mission in Blantyre, Malawi.

The 25-year-old was inspired to work with YWAM after his sister, who also works for the Christian volunteering organisation, told him about the opportunities to help underprivileged people living in the impoverished nation.

"The more I learnt about the missionary work and the volunteering, the more I wanted to do it," he said.

"I organised the Malawi Fundraising Concert with a friend of mine, June Gaskin, who has really helped me get everything sorted."

"I really hope I can raise around £600 on the night. The trip to volunteer is self-funded so it will help cover my travel insurance, flights, any injections I need and the cost of my stay.

"When I'm in Malawi I'll be doing construction work in very rural areas and helping out local children as well as supporting village schools."

He added: "I'm really looking forward to going out there. I think it will be an amazing experience."

The event will see artists take the stage for an evening of entertainment, including the band for which T.J. drums - The Lighthouse Worship Team.

The Kingsmoor Chrisitan Centre will be hosting the fundraising night on Saturday (April 13) from 7-9.30pm. Tickets cost £5 for adults and £2.50 for senior citizens. Under-17s can attend for free.

New group offer Macular support

THE town's first Macular Society support group has been formed to help people affected by degenerative eye conditions.

More than 20 people attended the group's inaugural meeting held at the Holiday Inn Express, including representatives from the Essex Blind Charity, Support4Sight and Harlow Blind Club.

The Macular Society support group will meet on the first Wednesday of each month to offer help and advice to those affected by macular degeneration - the gradual loss of the eye's central vision.

Club celebrates second birthday

A GROUP for disabled young people is set to celebrate its second anniversary after it was saved from closure.

Sam's Place will be holding a pyjama party next Thursday at Harlow Fields School to celebrate its survival after Harlow Council tried to shut the service down in a bid to save money.

The group now has 15 young members aged from 8-19 years-old who attend every week and three others are on a waiting list to join.

Sam's Place is looking for a DJ to provide music for their party. If you can help, contact the Star on (01279) 400577.

Participants have until Monday, April 22 to submit their designs, which should be drawn on A3 paper with the artist's name and contact details on the back and handed in to the store's customer service desk.

Contractors to join framework

CIRCLE Housing Group, one of the UK's largest providers of affordable housing, has invited contractors to tender for a place on a new building framework worth over £500m.

Businesses have until April 15 to complete a pre-qualification questionnaire ahead of bidding for a framework place. The framework will be used for projects in London, the South East and East Anglia. Contractors keen to apply, or for more information, can email James Anderson at james.anderson@circle.org.uk.

Pothole damage costs millions

NEW research from Kwikfit has revealed that the number of drivers in the South East who have suffered damage to their cars after hitting a pothole has risen by 35 per cent in the past four years.

Motorists in the region have been found to collectively pay the biggest price to correct damage to their vehicle with a regional bill of more than £104m.

Last month Essex County Council announced it was stepping up action to repair potholes with an additional £35m invested into highways.

TV jobseekers prove Harlow's got talent

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

BRIGHT young jobseekers from Harlow hope to help thousands of unemployed youngsters find work after taking a starring role in a new Channel 4 show.

The Occasio House residents appeared in Sunday's episode of documentary series The Secret Millions, in which they teamed up with Dave Fishwick - of 'Bank Of Dave' fame - to set up a Pop-Up Talent Shop helping 18-24 year-olds find work placements.

Turning the concept behind the traditional Jobcentre on its head, the group's model saw employers seek out the unemployed, giving talks and practical demonstrations in a bid to encourage youngsters into the workplace.

Unbeknown to the group, their project was being secretly assessed by judges from the Big Lottery Fund, who were so impressed with the idea they have now agreed to pump £2m into developing the concept and rolling out similar shops in London, Birmingham and Cardiff.

Jasmin Wareham (19), who lives in the Harlow Foyer and appeared in the show, said: "I'm so happy I had the opportunity to take part in The Secret Millions - it was a mind opener really."

"Meeting David Fishwick was so inspiring and the team-building exercises with residents from other foyers really helped to break the ice at the start of the project.

"I'm really glad I took part and so happy we secured the Big Lottery Funding needed to help take Pop-Up Talent shops forward."

Occasio House manager Teresa Aken added: "I'm so proud of our residents who took part in The Secret Millions and so excited that we have been successful in securing funding to help get Pop Up Talent off the ground."

The first Pop Up Talent Shops will open in the late summer and the Foyer Federation are already working with young people to prepare them for the grand opening.

Jane Slowey, chief executive of The Foyer Federation, added: "Pop-Up Talent will provide the foyer network across the UK with a way of showcasing the work that foyers do in getting young people prepared for the world of work."

The shops, a partnership between The Foyer Federation, GoodPeople and Changemakers, are now looking for recruits for the Youth Leadership Team. For more information or to apply, log on to www.popuptalent.org.

Travellers subject to new laws

HARLOW Council is to be given new powers to issue stop notices and fines to travellers who ignore planning rules.

It will allow the authority to stop illegal camps from being set up by issuing temporary stop notices and potentially unlimited financial penalties.

Plans for the new legislation were outlined by Local Government Minister Eric Pickles, who claimed the new rules would help prevent a repeat of last year's Dale Farm eviction.

He said: "In breach of planning law, travellers move in over a bank holiday weekend and it can take years for councils to remove them."

"Such episodes give the whole travelling community a bad name and fuel community tensions. These new powers will stop caravans in their tracks."

"We will stand behind those who play by the rules and use the full force of the law against those who break them."

Hospice receives a £470k share of Government cash

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ST Clare Hospice is to receive a share of a £5.5m Government handout set to be split between 19 hospices in the East of England.

The hospice at Hastingwood will be given £472,098 for its Space to Breathe project, which will see the hospice refurbished to benefit patients and their families. The work will begin this month.

St Clare chief executive Tanya Curry said: "The Space to Breathe project will, in many ways, allow patients and their families to be themselves, giving people greater independence."

"The refurbishment will give areas of the hospice a real uplift, injecting light and space and incorporating modern facilities especially in older parts of the building."

"I'm delighted the Department of Health has endorsed the changes we are desperate to make. This grant means that more of the money that our fantastic supporters raise for us day in and day out can be spent on providing care in much improved facilities."

The Space to Breathe project - which was drawn up after discussions with patients, families, volunteers and staff - is expected to be completed by March 2014.

Ms Curry added: "We recognised that people need room and space which is open and inviting yet intimate enough to respond to changing needs."

Announcing the successful projects yesterday, Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg said: "Hospices help patients and their

Christine springs raffle surprise

CELEBRITY horticulturalist Christine Walkden, who lives in Sawbridgeworth, surprised the three winners of St Clare Hospice's spring raffle when she rang them to say their tickets had been drawn.

The top prize of £2,000 went to Harlow resident Vera Eley, works at Harlow Garden Centre.

"I was at work so Christine left a message for me," said Vera. "As soon as I came in my husband Stan was 'come on, come on, listen to this message!'. It was a lovely surprise."

More than 27,000 tickets were sold for the spring raffle in just eight weeks - enough to fund the Hastingwood-based hospice's eight-bed inpatient unit for a week.

Christine, who had urged supporters to dig deep to buy a ticket when she launched the raffle at the beginning of March, said: "It's a fantastic amount to raise in such a short space of time and shows just how important the hospice is to local people, even in these tough times."

families at what can be the most difficult part of their life.

"This extra funding will help bring hospices up-to-date so staff and volunteers can work in modern environments, helping them continue to provide wonderful support with compassion and kindness."

The funding, which is part of the Department of Health's strategy to provide high quality care for adults approaching the end of their life, is run in partnership with the support charity Help the Hospices.

Charity chief executive David Prall said: "Investment in hospices is vital so they can continue to innovate, modernise and expand in order to meet the growing needs of the communities they serve."

"This funding will make a huge difference to the quality, dignity and compassion of the care provided."

St Clare's annual running costs are almost £3m, of which only 25 per cent is funded by the NHS.

HEALTHCHECK

in partnership with Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust

Hospital is investing in technology to improve the 'patient experience'

WE are always looking to improve the patient experience at Princess Alexandra Hospital and that is one of the reasons why we have invested in some of the latest healthcare technology.

Known as the electronic patient record (EPR), our doctors will soon be doing away with paper records and replacing them with digital versions.

That means clinicians from all over the hospital will be able to access patient information immediately and consultants working together from different teams will be able to share information and help improve diagnosis and treatment.

The EPR captures all the relevant information when a patient arrives at the hospital and any subsequent care is automatically updated to the same record.

As a result, patients will not need to waste time repeating clinical histories at each stage of their journey through the hospital.

And doctors won't need to wait to receive paper records because everything will be available instantly on super secure mobile tablets and computers.

Doctors will also be able to order and receive test results at the touch of a button which will speed up diagnosis of any illness. This is even better for recovery and will help get patients home sooner.

Melanie Walker, chief executive of The Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust, said: "The EPR is going to help give you a better experience when you come to Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust.

"As well as ensuring the very highest levels of patient care and safety, the system will make your visits to us quicker and easier than ever."

Disco-dancing sea lion gets her groove on

DISCO-dancing sea lion Ronan has become an online sensation after video footage of it grooving to music went viral on the internet.

Ronan's ability to keep rhythm with the classic Earth, Wind & Fire hit Boogie Wonderland has amazed scientists, who say the film blows apart the theory that animals need to be able to mimic sounds in order to keep a beat.

She was first trained to bob her head in time with rhythmic sounds, then showed she could transfer the skill to tempos and music she hadn't heard before. Her trainer - scientist Peter Cook - has now published his findings in a scientific journal.

He told reporters: "From my first interactions with her, it was clear that Ronan was a particularly bright sea lion."

"I figured training a mammal to move in time to music would be hard, but Ronan seemed ideal." In 2009, a cockatoo named Snowball became an internet sensation after his owner filmed him dancing to the Backstreet Boys.

Now there's even more cash in the community awards pot

AN extra £5,000 has been tipped into the pot of cash up for grabs for voluntary groups in West Essex and East Herts who work wonders to improve the lives of people in their communities.

To celebrate its 120th anniversary, local funeral director Daniel Robinson & Sons - in association with the Star and the Bishop's Stortford Observer - is running Cash for the Community Awards to shine the spotlight on those who give up their time to help others.

And this week it announced that a further £5k has been added to the original £10,000 sum courtesy of Central Essex Community Services - an NHS-related organisation.

"Central Essex Community Services is committed to providing high-quality health and social care to the patients of mid-Essex and beyond, but recognises that it cannot do this effectively without the help of other agencies in the community," said a CECS spokesman.

"As a social enterprise CECS has an obligation to return the surpluses it makes back into the community it serves and is keen to support charitable giving both directly and via its sister charity, A Better Future Ltd..

"CECS is keen to support local community groups and the voluntary sector, who have a direct impact in supporting the underlying health and social needs of their patients. Daniel Robinson Cash for the Community Awards offers a great deal of synergy with these charitable giving objectives.

"In recognition of this, CECS agreed to donate £5,000 to Daniel Robinson in order to increase the amount of funding it has available for its awards in the hope that a greater number of good causes can be supported."

Whether it is raising money, supporting the disabled, extending opportunities to young people or helping the sick and elderly, the family-run funeral firm, which has offices in Harlow, Sawbridgeworth, Epping, Bishop's Stortford and Dunmow, wants to honour the fantastic work being undertaken locally which too often goes unnoticed and unrewarded.

Managing director Gary Neill explained: "The Cash for the Community Awards are the final event planned by Daniel Robinson & Sons in celebration of our 120 years of service as a local family business.

Central Essex Community Services

"We appreciate the dedication that goes into organising and running local community groups and this is a chance for us to recognise the great and the good in the area for all their hard work.

"Knowing how hard it is for our valuable community groups to continue their good work, we would like Star readers to nominate a local group to receive one of our Cash for the Community Awards."

Local charities, community groups, school projects, welfare organisations, youth clubs and sporting groups are eligible to win a share of the £15,000.

Those who would like to nominate their organisation need to tell us what the group does and who it helps, how it is run and funded, how it would use the Cash for the Community money and the impact it would have on its members and the community.

The closing date for nominations is April 29. Applications will then be considered by a panel of judges made up of selected representatives of Daniel Robinson & Sons, the Star, Bishop's Stortford Observer and independent members.

All the finalists will be invited to a glittering awards evening hosted by former Anglia TV newsreader Helen McDermott at Rhodes in Bishop's Stortford on Tuesday, June 4, when the winners will be announced. The successful nominees will receive awards ranging from £250 to £1,000. In total, 24 awards will be made.

Tea's up for TV's Clare in cancer charity fundraiser

TELEVISION sports presenter Clare Balding has launched this year's Tea for Helen campaign to raise money for the Helen Rollason Cancer Charity, which has a support centre in Sawbridgeworth.

The writer and broadcaster, pictured right, who is vice-patron of the charity, teamed up with local fundraisers Angela Lodge and Heather Baldwin and top photographer Trevor Leighton to highlight the fundraising initiative, which has generated more than £66,500 since its inception in 2010.

"I'm backing the Tea for Helen campaign because it's such an easy, fun way to raise money for the Helen Rollason Cancer Charity," said Clare. "Just hold a tea party and ask your guests to make a donation.

"The money you raise will fund cancer support centres and research into new cancer treatments. So please put the kettle on and help Helen Rollason Cancer Charity to improve the lives of more people living with cancer now and in the future."

The charity's centre at the Rivers Hospital, in High Wych Road, was officially opened by Clare in 2009 to offer patients and their carers support and counselling.

It also provides free therapies such as massage and reflexology, to complement their medical treatment and reduce stress.

The charity was founded in 1999 in memory of Clare's fellow presenter and close friend Helen Rollason. It conducts trials of new cancer treatments at its research centre at Broomfield Hospital in Chelmsford and the North Middlesex University Hospital in London.

The charity is hoping people of all ages will cause a stir by organising a Tea for Helen event. Schools, businesses, clubs and individuals are all being urged to take part by bringing friends, family and colleagues together to switch on the kettle and share a brew.

To host a Tea for Helen event, call the charity on 08456 802047 for a party pack, which includes posters and table place cards. Alternatively, visit www.helenrollason.org.uk for more information.

Join the Midnight ramblers now with 2-for-£20 offer

PREPARATIONS for this year's St Clare Hospice Midnight Walk are up and running following the official launch in Harlow town centre last Wednesday.

Members of the fundraising team and hospice volunteers made a highly visible presence by wearing bright pink T-shirts as they were joined outside the Asda store in the Water Gardens by new St Clare mascot Clare Bear.

They were there to spread the message that the walk will take place on Saturday, July 6 and encourage shoppers to sign up... and they were overwhelmed by the enthusiastic response they received.

Organisers are confident this year's walk, which is now in its seventh year and is once again being supported by the Star, will be the best ever and are hoping that more than 1,200 people will take part.

This year, for the first time, participants will be offered the choice of two distances - the normal 10km route and a shorter 5km alternative for those who want to take part but feel they could not manage the longer walk.

The Midnight Walk is one of the biggest fundraising events in Harlow and a night to remember for all those who take part. Register this month and you can take advantage of a 2-for-£20 offer, saving £10 against the regular price of £15 each.

It will also give you more time to raise sponsorship. The registration fee covers the cost of organising the walk but it is individual fundraising which helps the hospice to provide its services free of charge to the local community.

In the past walkers have, on average, raised £110 each - enough to pay for five hours of care for someone in St Clare's inpatient unit at Hastingwood or for a specialist nurse to visit someone in their own home.

The sum of £175 could run the entire inpatient unit for one hour, providing care for eight patients. Last year's Midnight Walkers raised a total of £90,000, enough to pay for three whole weeks of care for all the patients in the unit.

Many of those who signed up at Wednesday's launch said they were signing up in memory of someone who had been cared for by the hospice during the last 12 months.

One shopper said she was going to persuade her slimming club members to join her, and even the town's Police Community Support Officers took a handful of leaflets to drum up support back at the station.

If you want to take part this year, registering could not be easier. You can sign up online at www.stclarehospice.org.uk/midnight or give the fundraising team a call on (01279) 7773750 and you will be sent a form in the post. Alternatively you can pick one up from any St Clare shop or from the Star offices at 6 West Gate, Harlow.

Once you register, you will be sent an information pack with loads of fundraising ideas to help you raise even more cash for St Clare before the walk.

COPING WITH BEREAVEMENT

The Caring Approach to a Sensitive Subject

Coming to terms with your loss

ALTHOUGH none of us like to think about it, bereavement is part of life and something we all have to deal with at some time or another.

If you're lucky you won't be affected by it until later in life, although that still doesn't make it easier when it does happen. The time is never "right".

It's hard to predict how one person will deal with bereavement compared to another, although there are certain common experiences that many people will share and there are a few things that are worth bearing in mind to help yourself through it.

For example, don't make hasty decisions if you can help it. Make sure you've had time to adjust to the death of a loved one before you make any major changes.

If you sell your house, move into a new area or change jobs before you're ready, you may find you've taken on too much too soon.

Don't rush to dispose of clothing either. Hurrying to get rid of your loved one's clothes and possessions, even if you're persuaded by friends to do this, isn't necessarily useful. It's best to do it when you feel ready.

It's really important you look after yourself during this time. You are likely to be vulnerable and prone to illness, so eat well, rest properly and take extra care. Vitamin supplements may help if you find you're appetite is low.

Whatever you're going through, open and honest communication can lift the burden and make you feel a whole lot better. Talk to people about how you feel.

If it's all getting too much or you don't feel you can talk to friends or family, then your doctor should be able to advise you about appropriate help.

There are a number of expert organisations available. For example, Cruse Bereavement Care is a national charity set up to offer free, confidential help to bereaved people.

You can find support from Cruse's local areas (national helpline 08444 779400)

Finding a funeral director, choosing the ceremony, deciding where it will be held, whether cremation or burial, cost and whether to have a social gathering, are decisions that have to be made.

A good funeral director should provide you with advice and support and help you in line with your choices and preferences, giving a clear idea of costs.

Gospel of George a Biblical revelation

CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IMMERSE yourself in the greatest story ever told as a drama of Biblical proportions comes to The Playhouse this weekend.

Award-winning actor George Dillon presents an unforgettable vision of Jesus in his highly intense, very human and occasionally humorous solo staging of the first Gospel.

Acclaimed by theatre critics and church leaders alike, The Gospel Of Matthew has been performed more than 100 times in the UK - including three runs at the Edinburgh Festival - and has captivated audiences as far afield as Canada and Bermuda.

Partly inspired by a chance encounter with Bob Geldof at Euston Station, the show was conceived in the immediate aftermath of the 9/11 terror attacks and portrays Christ as a "contemporary, raging fighter for God".

Yet although Dillon - whose impassioned performance has seen him shortlisted for The Stage's coveted 'Best Actor' award - has won praise from all sides of the faith divide for his work, he has always declined to divulge his own beliefs.

"The question I am most frequently asked is: what are my beliefs? I always decline to answer," he said.

"I want everyone who sees the show to consider its meaning for themselves and not to be influenced by anything they have heard or read about mine.

"I think it would diminish the experience for the audience to be analysing what they have read about the artist's opinions and not reassessing their own."

He is equally insistent that audiences' appreciation for the show needn't hinge on their own faith - or indeed lack of it.

"This production did not set out to either criticise or promote any brand of Christianity," he explained.

"My hope is that it will continue to raise vital questions for everyone who sees it - whatever the flavour or fervour of their own faith."

• The Gospel Of Matthew comes to The Playhouse on Saturday at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £13 (£11 conc).

Comedy and tragedy in provocative lament for a disappearing England

ONE of the greatest new dramas of the 21st century is to receive its Harlow premiere later this month.

Bold, provocative and wildly imaginative, Jez Butterworth's Jerusalem has captivated audiences across the UK since its 2009 debut, scooping multiple awards and securing extended runs in both the West End and Broadway.

Now the author's tragicomic masterpiece comes to Harlow in an ambitious new production from am-dram stalwarts Harlow Theatre Company - and promises to take audiences on a white knuckle ride from laugh-out-loud hilarity to jaw-dropping brutality.

The play tells the story of Johnny 'Rooster' Byron, an eccentric hellraiser who lives in a ramshackle caravan in the local woods.

A veritable force of nature, his unique lifestyle attracts a growing legion of disenfranchised teenage disciples, who he entertains with drink, drugs and improbable tales of daredevil exploits.

But his way of life has also made him a vulnerable target and on the day of the Flintock Fair, Rooster finds council officials closing in to evict him while long-time enemies are intent on settling old scores.

With colourful language, graphic violence and sexual references, director Jane Miles warned the play is not for the faint-hearted.

"It will take you on a rollercoaster ride from hilarious comedy through melancholic reflection to rebelliousness and brutal menace, and is both touching and intense," she said.

"It's a modern-day classic that raises uncomfortable questions about discrimination and hostility, but is also a lament for a disappearing, magical old England."

• Jerusalem begins a four-night run at Victoria Hall Theatre, Old Harlow, on April 24. Performances start at 7.30 pm and tickets cost £11 (£9 concessions) from 0844 8700887 or www.ticketsource.co.uk/harlowtheatrecompany.

Romance and reverie at revival of revered ballet

ROMANCE and retrospection take centre stage at The Playhouse this weekend as Harlow Ballet Association revive renowned 'ballet blanc' Les Sylphides.

Widely considered as one of the greatest one-act ballets of all time, the enchanting production features the masterful choreography of Michel Fokine and a sublime musical score by Chopin.

It will form the first half of HBA's annual showcase, which this year looks back at some of the highlights from the 30-year career of the group's choreographer and artistic director, Michael Branwell.

Excerpts from three of his finest productions will make up the show's second half, with Pictures At An Exhibition, Seascape and The Sorcerer's Apprentice all featuring.

Michael told the Star: "It's all very exciting. Normally, at this time of year, we concentrate on a full length classic like Swan Lake or The Nutcracker, but this year we are setting real challenges to our dancers."

• Les Sylphides opens tonight (Thursday) and runs until Sunday. Tickets cost £11 from (01279) 431945 or www.playhouseharlow.com.

Sci-fi epic is a battle for Major Tom

OBLIVION certificate 12A, 2h05m

SINCE the release of Top Gun way back in 1986, Tom Cruise has been a box office heavyweight, headlining high-profile blockbusters which have raked in more than seven billion dollars around the world.

His performances have also earned him three Oscar nominations for Born On The Fourth Of July, Jerry Maguire and Magnolia.

Now Cruise blasts into space in a post-apocalyptic sci-fi thriller based on a graphic novel by Joseph Kosinski and Arvid Nelson and set on a futuristic metropolis hovering above the surface of the devastated planet Earth.

Drone maintenance officer Jack Harper (Cruise) defies the orders of his tech operator Victoria (Andrea Riseborough) to rescue a mysterious woman called Julia (Olga Kurylenko) from a crash site.

This act of gung-ho chivalry brings the former marine into contact with grizzled resistance leader Malcolm Beech (Morgan Freeman) and his followers, who possesses startling information about the fate of mankind.

"They lied to you, Jack, it's time to learn the truth," growls Malcolm, hinting at a massive conspiracy that provides Cruise with the perfect excuse to perform death-defying stunts and acrobatics amid a blitzkrieg of expensive pyrotechnics and digital effects.

SCARY MOVIE 5 certificate 15, 1h26m

LAUNCHED in 2000 by director Keenen Ivory Wayans, the Scary Movie franchise has repeatedly lampooned horror movie characters and conventions of the time, beginning with The Blair Witch Project, I Know What You Did Last Summer, Scream and The Sixth Sense.

Three sequels were released in 2001, 2003 and 2006 and now Malcolm D Lee helms this fifth instalment in the series, which bids farewell to recurring characters Cindy Campbell (Anna Faris) and Brenda Meeks (Regina Hall).

The targets for parody this time include Mama, Paranormal Activity, Sinister and adult comedy Ted, focusing on happily married couple Dan (Simon Rex) and Jody (Ashley Tisdale) who fear that their newborn baby is being haunted by a demonic spirit.

They seek guidance from a priest (Katt Williams) and even set up cameras in the infant's nursery, but the dark forces are too strong for the madcap man of the cloth and the night-vision technology. Look out for cameos from Lindsay Lohan, Charlie Sheen, Snoop Lion, Mike Tyson and Usher.

Perfect plants for patio power

WONDERING what to put in your patio containers this summer? My pansies and violas are looking so forlorn I'm already thinking I'll ditch them in favour of some higher achievers in this unpredictable British weather.

Help is at hand, in the form of a new trial from Which? Gardening, the Consumers' Association magazine, which last summer tested 47 new varieties of plants for containers or hanging baskets, bought as plugs or young plants in April and then planted into suitable containers.

The young plants were grown under cover until the threat of frost had gone and planted in container compost with added slow-release fertiliser.

The trial found that the easy-care plants which produced plenty of blooms included Argyranthemum 'Yellow Empire' (Mr Fothergill's), a classic marguerite with bright yellow daisy-like flowers which – with some deadheading – produced masses of flowers throughout the summer.

Another winner, which combined well with the marguerites, was Bacopa 'Atlas' (Dobies, Mr Fothergill's, Suttons), a blue and white variety which makes a background for blowsier plants in a mixed planting. This variety also produces unusually large flowers, almost 2cm across, and trails brilliantly. Those trialled flowered continuously for 18 weeks.

GARDENING TIPS

by Hannah Stephenson

Diascia 'Blue Belle' (Plants By Post, J Parker's), a new variety launched at the Chelsea Flower Show last year, cascaded over the sides of the basket and didn't need deadheading, while Petunia 'Queen Bee' (Spalding Plant & Bulb Company) proved a vigorous grower, producing a plentiful mix of yellow and deep purple blooms and a succession of flowers despite heavy rain.

Among the best rain-tolerant plants tested was the Pelargonium 'Pacific Black Knight' (Dobies, Suttons), an ivy-leaved variety with velvety flowers, which continued to flower until the trial ended in October.

If you want to grow flowers for cutting, have a go with Dianthus 'Green Trick', an unusual hybrid sweet William with large, fuzzy green heads, which last at least 10 days in a vase.

There are ways to help your patio plants along. Use big pots, if you can, so there are more nutrients for the plants to root out, and the more compost there is, the more water is retained.

Water the compost thoroughly rather than little and often, to allow the water to seep deep into the pot and encourage healthy root growth, rather than just wetting the surface.

Make sure your compost doesn't dry out because it can be difficult to rehydrate. If you are using hanging baskets or smaller pots, they may recover if you dunk the base in a bucket of water for a while, to allow the water to soak the compost from below.

Your stars with Patrick Arundell to guide you through the week ahead

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20
Expect action, a few surprises and perhaps a desire to consolidate your recent gains and act on inspired ideas. News may come out of the blue and give you a surprise, or even a shock, but it may serve a useful purpose too. The focus shifts to the zodiac sign of Taurus, so you may want to slow down and consider making money from a plan which may have good potential. Call for more...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23
Your love life may be fast paced, with some unexpected news on the way. Whether single or entwined, there may be no time for boredom. However, things change this week as Venus, the Sun and Mars move into Taurus. Your sensual side may come to the fore. You may want to invest in a few luxuries for your home. Joint finances look promising too. Call for your financial forecast...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
Finally, you may feel more in control of your destiny and future. As Venus, the Sun and Mars move into your sign, you'll find yourself much readier for action. Take note of any brainwaves or urgent desires, as these may act as a catalyst to your next strand of successes. Now, it's all about you - what you have to say or share. You may decide on an image change too. Call me for more...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22
It may have been a case of all work and no play recently. This week you're still in active mode solving problems at work and influencing the future with spirited ideas. However, the focus gradually shifts to Taurus and your relationship zone. It's time to consolidate your connections, especially with life's key players. Romance and dating also look pleasantly positive. Call for more...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
The focus shifts to your spiritual zone, so after a period of heightened social activity, it may be time to slow down and reflect on your goals and on your future. You may feel like taking time out to do your own thing and generally enjoy the company. If this is the case, you're absolutely on track and you'll get a chance to recharge your batteries too. Call for your in-depth forecast...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21
You've been enjoying your fun and leisure options, getting out and about and actively engaging your adventurous spirit. There may be one or two romantic surprises which could give the week a boost. Gradually, the focus shifts to work and health issues. It's time to give your attention to important tasks and to getting fit and staying well. Don't ignore life's details. Call for more...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
You have been busy career-wise, focusing on goals and taking steps to make speedy progress. A lot of this may have involved putting out feelers and researching your options. From this week, it's time to network and connect with key people on a more social basis. Solid friendships breed success, whether romance wise or in a business sense. Call now for more news and advice...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20
Lately, your home may not have been the oasis of peace and calm you would like it to be. The week ahead may still reveal a few blips, and possibly some unexpected news. However, the focus shifts to the laid back and more restful energies of Taurus. It's time to explore options which bring you joy and tranquility, such as walking in nature or visiting an art exhibition. Call for more...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
Travel plans may be in full swing. The desire to get away may encourage some research. But you'll want to balance a need to expand your horizons with the urge to get ahead and secure the best deals or contracts for yourself may be important as a way to obtain future financial stability and enduring successes that go from strength to strength. Call me for more...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19
You've been brilliant lately, not only in what you have had to say, but also idea wise. You may have been busy making new connections or coming up with plans for a reunion or for writing a novel. Fast-paced action has been the name of the game, and now the cosmos is encouraging you to slow down, relax and enjoy eating and sleeping better. Call now for your in-depth forecast...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
Although there may be some unexpected news around shared finances that might encourage a leap into action, things seem to be cooling down on this front. Any panicky scenarios you've had to deal with may start to calm down - and not before time! The focus swings to expansion, and whether this involves travel or far ranging financial hopes. Call me now for more news and friends and new for a get-astrol advice...

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20
Your finances may have been a blessing and a curse lately. This is another action packed week, as a desire to splash the cash and have you in a spin. But it's about to change as the focus shifts to Taurus. Solid, down to earth, practical planning and strategizing may be the way ahead. How about calling old me now for more news and friends and new for a get-astrol advice...

Three-bed semi with views over meadows

SITUATED in the popular Deer Park area of Harlow, this three-bedroom, semi-detached property is in a particularly good position next to attractive open meadows.

The house has had the same owners for 33 years and it clear how much care and attention they have paid to their home. They recently installed a new heating system, new kitchen, new windows and doors.

A covered front entrance porch and double wooden front doors open into a large entrance hall where there is a window to the side and doors to a cloakroom and lounge.

This room has a window to the front and a doorway through to the dining room which in turn has patio doors leading into the conservatory.

The kitchen features a range of modern white eye and base level units with marble tops over. There are integrated appliances including a washing machine and dishwasher, as well as a built-in double oven, ceramic hob with canopy extractor hood and inset stainless steel sink.

The conservatory is glazed all round with a tiled floor and French doors to the garden.

Upstairs, bedroom one has a built-in six-door wardrobe and overlooks the front of the house. There are a further two bedrooms and a family bathroom with modern white suite including a panelled bath and a double-width step-in shower cubicle with power shower.

To the front is a block paved driveway and lawned area with a side gate leading the landscaped rear garden and converted garage. This is currently used as a store/utility room with fitted kitchen units, fridge freezer, tumble dryer and a window to the rear.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

MANY people buy a house with the intention of changing the interior.

Kitchens and bathrooms are often first on the list when it comes to making our mark and personalising a new home, but when it comes to the garden it's often left until last.

While prospective buyers may be happy to look past a dated kitchen knowing they'll be changing it anyway or not worry too much about an ugly avocado bathroom suite that has seen better days, when it comes to the garden an untidy jungle can put many potential buyers off.

This may well surprise a keen gardener who would not only relish the idea of a challenge but who would also know that the work involved in putting it right would be cheaper and often far less labour intensive than a new kitchen or bathroom.

However, for many people a garden is simply an extension of the home - an outdoor space for entertaining or relaxing and certainly not somewhere to spend hours potting on or weeding.

Just as one man's meat is another's poison, then one prospective buyer's deal-breaking, weed-infested wilderness is another's potential paradise. If you're thinking of putting your house on the market it's worth bearing this in mind.

Whether you've enjoyed the outdoor space and have created a horticultural masterpiece or have a few sad looking pots and an untidy lawn, it's worth making sure that when it comes to showing a prospective buyer around, the garden needs to look its best.

It needs to be something a new owner would be happy to look at every day - or at least for the first few months until the new kitchen and bathroom are installed.

Working with Builders

When you buy a property that needs work, you usually hope to be able to recoup the cost of renovation by adding significantly to the future selling price. That's the theory anyway! But getting the builders in can be stressful, and we have all heard stories of extortionate costs, unforeseen extras, no-shows, and poor, even dangerous, workmanship.

When assessing trades people, there are several things you can do to avoid disappointment or financial loss. For example:

- Ask a friend in an allied profession such as a surveyor or architect to recommend names of proven trades people.
- Don't rely on your own guesstimates! Decide what you want to do, get several quotes (not estimates) and work your budget around these.
- Don't give details of your budget to the builder.
- Factor in incidentals such as alterations to plumbing, wiring or tiling that may be affected by your work. Get quotes from specialists.
- Tradespeople work best with people they know, so ask your chosen builder to recommend other specialists.

- Don't be afraid to ask to see previous work and speak to the client.
- Don't overlook the cost of removing rubble, old carpets, etc. Skips bulk out quickly and can cost over £150 a time.
- Request an invoice in stages, and avoid cash in hand.
- Ask if any discount associated with the builder's trade accounts will be passed on to you. If so, ask for receipts.
- Agree a finish date with penalties for failing to meet deadlines.
- Decide how realistic it will be to live in the property during renovation. Could this slow the builder down?
- Qualifications and memberships give a good indication of professionalism. E.g. Guild of Master Craftsmen builders, CORGI registered plumbers, NECEIC approved electricians.

With the building trades you really do get what you pay for, so avoid the temptation to cut corners!

The power of ten

BY MATT KIMBERLEY

THE R8 has been the figurehead of the Audi range since it first rolled into town in 2006 and it's been working wonders for the brand ever since.

In that time it's had its roof cut off, a bigger engine stuffed in it and, in GT form, pumped up and pared back even further. Not many cars could go so long effectively unmolested, but for 2013 the surgeon's scalpel has come out - in a very modest way - and a few tweaks have been made to four-ring supercar.

Spot one in your rear view mirror and it will be the piercing all-LED headlights that catch your attention first, now standard on all R8 models. The front grille has been subtly tweaked and now wears chromed horizontal details on V10 versions, the side blades are also a little bigger on 10-cylinder models and there is a new front bumper to boot.

Massive changes they are not, and with good reason; this is still a fantastic looking car both in coupé and Spyder forms. It has immense presence, still turns heads and has no trouble of raising the pulse of the lucky person holding the keys.

There's a new model in the range, too, the V10 plus Coupé which has a tweaked version of the 5.2-litre V10 engine producing 550PS and gets some extra bits thrown in -

Fact File

Audi R8 V10 Spyder

£124,225

ENGINE: 5.2-litre petrol unit producing 518bhp
TRANSMISSION: 7-speed DSG gearbox driving all 4 wheels
PERFORMANCE: Maximum speed 193mph, 0-62mph 3.8s
ECONOMY: 21.2mpg combined
CO<sub>2</sub> RATING: 310g/km unique alloy wheels, exterior detailing plus LED lighting and carbon trim in the engine bay.

But the biggest change is in the engine room (well, next to it) as alongside the standard six-speed manual Audi has introduced an S tronic seven-speed gearbox to replace the previous R tronic version.

What does that mean? Well, the old R tronic box was essentially an old-school automatic whereas S tronic means that same as elsewhere in the Audi range - dual-clutch wizardry, rapid and seamless full-bore up shifts and much less grief in traffic.

The reality is just the same. Piloting this V10 Spyder out through the centre of London is exactly the kind of challenge that everyday supercars have to take in their stride, and despite it being the middle of the lunchtime rush hour the R8 copes perfectly well.

Leave the transmission in automatic mode (you still get a chunky alloy lever to select the gearbox's actions) and you can pedal the R8 along without expending much more effort than you would in a regular car.

Not that this spoils the sense of occasion however, because sitting snugly in the R8's cockpit you are down low compared to other cars, and grasping the small but chunky flat-bottomed steering wheel reminds you of what it is capable of.

Leave it in automatic and stick to the first few centimetres of throttle travel and you could almost forget you're in a supercar, especially if you leave the button marked 'Sport' alone. But that would be a waste and it takes only a moment to access the more dynamic side of the R8's personality.

Punch that button and the revs flare instantly as the throttle response is sharpened and the gearbox switches into a more aggressive programme. The thing you'll notice first, however, is the howl from the exhaust as it opens out completely to give the engine its full voice.

Why you'd have the switch in any other position is, quite frankly, beyond me. That V10 delivers such a fantastic range of noises it encourages you to change down very early and hold on to gears for longer just to hear it sing.

Squeeze on the throttle in any gear and there's a hardening of the exhaust note as it begins to accelerate hard. Pin the pedal to the floor and the response is dramatic and instant; third gear is the one to go for, because at first you can't believe how hard it pulls in a relatively tall gear and then as you reach the red line it's even more amazing how it keeps on pulling hard way into big speeds.

Whatever you ask of it, the V10 Spyder responds emphatically with a mighty push in the back.

Crucially it is friendly and entertaining when you start to push on, too. The Quattro drivetrain provides reassurance rather than nannying interference and even if the surface is only fractionally damp you can use the power with much greater freedom.

The steering is sharp and responsive but not nervous, although the flat-bottomed wheel takes a little getting used to.

No car this fast has a right to be so friendly, but you can lean on the R8 a great deal and forget how much it costs. Just revel in the grip, the balance and the knowledge that even if you are a little cack-handed it is on your side.

That the R8 is so responsive and accessible when you press on yet comfortable and unobtrusive when you're just burbling through town is exactly why you'd buy one.

NEW CAR REVIEW

The New Citroen C4 Picasso ...

With the new modular EMP2 platform offering a longer wheelbase and increased cabin space, the New C4 Picasso is more compact on the outside with more space on the inside than the previous generation model, setting new benchmarks for the segment.

It is 40mm shorter but with a 55mm longer wheelbase for class-beating interior space. Boot space is increased by 40-litres to 537-litres VDA - the best in the segment - and expands up to 630-litres with the rear seats pushed forward.

The New C4 Picasso is 140kg lighter than its predecessor thanks to the new EMP2 platform, which uses aluminium, very high yield strength steel and a composite rear floor cut to weight by 70 kg. The body style cuts a further 70 kg through optimised exterior dimensions and new materials such as an aluminium bonnet and composite tailgate. The significant weight loss means New C4 Picasso now weighs the same as the C3 Picasso.

The New C4 Picasso is the first compact MPV with an internal combustion engine to deliver sub-100g/km CO2 emissions. The e-HDi 90 Airdream engine, mated to the new 6-speed clutchless gearbox, emits just 98g/km with fuel economy of 74mpg - a record in the class.

- Stop & Start technology is fitted on all diesel units with the exception of the HDi 90 manual.

- The popular e-HDi 115 engine emits just 104g/km CO2 with the 6-speed clutchless gearbox, 105g/km with the manual and delivers 70mpg.

- New C4 Picasso will be the first Citroën model available with a BlueHDi engine meeting Euro 6 standards. The BlueHDi 150 emits just 110g/km of CO2 and features an SCR module (selective catalytic reduction), currently the most efficient technology for treating NOx (- 90%) and cutting CO2 emissions in all situations.

Alongside the 6-speed manual gearbox, a new 6-speed clutchless gearbox is available. The ETG6 (6-speed Efficient Tronic Gearbox) delivers improved.

NEW CAR REVIEW BUYING A VAN FOR YOUR BUSINESS AND FINANCING IT

Whether you are a sole trader or a busy commercial organisation with daily deliveries to make, you must have reliable vehicles. Your needs might be many and various, encompassing cars, trucks or a range of light and medium vans, depending on the nature of your business.

When it comes to choosing your vehicle you will rely heavily on your local dealer. Be sure to take a test drive. Many dealers are able to arrange 24-hour trials, too, so that you can be sure that the style of van you are considering really does meet the needs of the business. You will want to check out the servicing and maintenance support your dealer can provide, but above all you will have to decide upon the most cost-effective way of financing the vehicle.

Again, your dealer will be glad to help. There might even be a dedicated business specialist who would be glad to weigh up the options with you. At the end of the day, of course, it's your business – and your decision.

Your dealer will probably be working with one of the many finance and leasing companies who operate throughout the UK. You can arrange finance through the dealership, or independently if you prefer. The first step is to decide whether you want to buy or lease the van in question. A good finance company will help you find the best solution. If the deal works out well for you, they'll enjoy repeat business, so it's in their interests to look after your business.

The majority of vans and light commercial vehicles on the roads have been purchased rather than leased – but just because you've always owned your fleet doesn't mean that you can't consider alternatives at any time. The benefit of ownership, of course, is that the vehicles look good as assets on your balance sheet and you have the freedom to sell at any time. The downside is the residual risk, not least depreciation when you come to sell and the manpower it can take to administer and maintain the vans you operate.

Leasing, on the other hand, allows you the use of the vehicles without the responsibilities of ownership – and without tying up existing lines of credit. Typically, van leasing schemes run for 12 months and fixed monthly rentals will help you to spread payments evenly and budget accurately for fleet expansion and replacement.

If you decide to buy, will you pay in cash or credit? Capital outlay now could mean less flexibility later and profit opportunities could be lost. You have to decide if finance is more easily available to you for vehicles or for other purposes, of course, and which would be cheaper.

Credit can be obtained through your bank in the form of an overdraft or business loan, but this could tie up lines of credit you would prefer to leave open for other purposes. Financing through a purchase plan can improve cash flow – but there is, of course, a cost attached. You pay interest whatever option you ultimately choose.

If you are considering a purchase plan, where you eventually own or retain the option to own the van, plans are available for

- conditional sale (may also be known as Lease Purchase);
- Hire Purchase; and
- Contract Purchase.

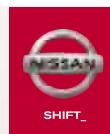

There are as many options in vehicle leasing and you have to decide whether to choose a fixed term agreement or a flexible agreement. Each has its own advantages and you would wish to discuss these in detail with your finance provider – who might also be your commercial vehicles dealer.

When it comes to insurance, of course, you would be expected to arrange cover yourself, although if you are leasing or renting your vans, the finance company might be able to offer insurance as part of their package. Other services which are well worth looking into are breakdown recovery and accident management.

In summary, whether you're buying the first van you need for your business, or adding to an established fleet, if you do your homework thoroughly at the outset you can free yourself and your capital to work where it's most effective – in your business.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Darby's cup treble fits well for Shoes

SCOTT Darby grabbed a hat-trick as Three Shoes put last season's double cup final heartbreak behind them when they beat Harlow Link 4-0 to win the Harlow & District League Cup division four final.

Both sides had chances before Shoes went ahead in the 34th minute.

James Jennings' pass set up Darby who nipped in to round keeper Ronnie Forsyth and shoot into an empty goal.

Shoes went 2-0 up on 67 minutes when Darby fired in a rebound.

Charlie Jennings increased the lead on 78 minutes when he deflected in Darby's goalbound effort.

Darby completed his hat-trick tucking in from a few yards out in extra-time. THREE SHOES: Young, Matinyadze, Gibson, Jackson, Jones, Wookey, Owen, Jennings, Goddard, Jennings, Darby. Subs: Clarke, Roythorne, Trowsdale, Sommerville, Blair. HARLOW LINK: Forsyth, Cross, Breeds, Knight, Ingle, Holloway, Exley, Macleay, Holloway, Breeds, Barron. Subs: Herrington, Baptiste-Pert, Tomsett, Messenger.

Darts title climax set to be a thriller

WHITE Admiral had no game and title rivals Servo Link exploited this to go six points clear at the top of the Harlow & District Darts League.

A 118-outshot from Damo Green clinched a 6-2 win for Servo at Tye Green Foxes.

All is still to play for as Admiral have a game in hand over Servo and eight points are up for grabs.

Mick Rout threw a maximum for Tye Green in their 7-1 win at Colt Hatch. SC Stow thrashed hosts Paringdon 7-1, Swift drew 4-4 against Buccaneers, ST Colts defeated Sawbridgeworth Brewery 6-2 and Moot House beat Moot House Raiders 5-3.

Sheering win title

SHEERING clinched the Bishop's Stortford Stansted and District Football League premier division title for the first time ever when they beat Parsloe Athletic 2-0 at home.

Mark Reed and Scott Byrne netted for the hosts. Hertfordshire Rangers reached the Interdivisional Plate final when they overcame Lower Street 6-5 on penalties. It had finished 3-3 following extra-time.

Youngsters made of tough stuff

HARLOW Athletic Club's young runners did them proud at the Chelmsford Open.

It was hard to believe the summer outdoor athletic season had arrived as athletes and spectators endured freezing wind and snow flurries at the meet.

Harlow took a large contingent of track athletes, some of whom also participated in jumping events. However, the throwing events were cancelled entirely.

There were many strong performances all around but the most notable came from Lewis Harknett (first in the U-13 boys' 1500m in 4.56.07); Kai Boggan (first in both the U-11 boys' 600m in 1.58.08 and long jump 3.72m) and Kelly Down (first in the U-11 girls' 80m in 12.65).

Speaking after the meet, Steve Lott, youth coach at Harlow AC, said that the conditions played a massive part in the competition.

"I spoke to the senior track judge who hadn't seen such conditions in his 27 years experience," he said.

"So we have to be pleased that so many athletes turned out and then achieved strong results under such circumstances.

"Apart from the first placed finishes we had a good number of second and thirds.

"I hope that no one has been put off by the conditions as I'm hopeful that we can field a solid team in our first Young Athletes' League match in a couple of weeks' time."

Rams secure safety despite hammering

HARLOW suffered a heavy defeat at Sudbury but did just enough to ensure they will not be relegated.

Up to three teams could be relegated from the division, but the Rams scored four tries on Saturday with the fourth coming from player-coach Rhys Powell.

This meant Harlow got a bonus point and they are now 11 points ahead of Sudbury who lie third from bottom in the 12-team table.

The Suffolk side have two games left and even if they get five points each time they cannot catch Harlow who are eighth.

Sudbury boosted their squad for their clash against Harlow with some very experienced university players to enhance their chances.

It paid off and they ram-

DIV THREE NORTH EAST

paged away to a 33 point lead as the first half drew to a close.

Harlow managed to get onto the scoresheet just before the interval with a try from Powell.

The second half was more of the same with Sudbury outpacing Harlow.

However, the visitors did score three more tries through Kain Claridge, Dominic Lane and a second from Powell.

Michael Dobson also kicked two conversions for Harlow.

● THE heavy defeat was in stark contrast to the rest of Harlow's teams.

The Rams' second team won the Essex Merit Table plate competition when they beat Upminster II 27-11 in the final.

The tries came from Neil McMullen, Kurtiss Knightley, David Stradling and Dominic Lane.

Two conversions and a penalty from Ryan McGlone completed the scoring.

The plate triumph came after Harlow seconds had thrashed Basildon 60-10 in the last four.

Harlow Saints are strong contenders to win the Greene King Merit Table and boosted their chances on Saturday with a clear 31-17 away win over Camborne Exiles.

Harlow ladies consolidated their third place in the league on Sunday with a 13-2 win at Chesham.

Meanwhile, Harlow U-14 players Liam Jones and Jarrod Bates played for Essex in their 22-20 win over Middlesex.

Jarrod came on as a replacement at prop and played the whole second half. Jones was on for the entire game and contributed two tries to the Essex tally.

His first was from a pick up at the back of a ruck close to the line. The second came late in the game when Essex decided to take a tap penalty on the Middlesex 22. Jones took the offload and sprinted in for the try.

The pair will be available for a key Essex League game at home against Saffron Walden this Sunday and if Harlow win they will get promoted. Harlow U-16s have already secured promotion.

Hawks pay price for silly mistakes

ERRORS at both ends proved costly for Harlow Town as they slipped to a 2-0 defeat at Romford in Ryman League, division one north.

The Hawks were without keeper Danny Knowles (leg injury) for Saturday's clash and James Hassell took his spot.

Hassell did well saving a 15th minute penalty from Romford's Lewis Francis with his feet. The spot kick was awarded when Francis was fouled by Nathan Hunte.

Four minutes later, Harlow's Ben Hart crossed from the right and Joakim Ehui's shot was brilliantly pushed out by the Romford stopper, but it only travelled as far as Shamir Mullings, but he headed over.

The hosts went ahead on 52 minutes through an unstoppable David Ottley 25-yard shot.

A fierce Joe O'Donoghue 75th minute shot hit a post before Romford scored four minutes later when Michael Clark sprinted clear to shoot home.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "James Hassell saved a penalty, but we created chances to win the game and were not ruthless enough.

"We have made two errors and got punished for them."

Grays' late strike hits Harlow hard

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman was optimistic about his side's chances when they host close rivals Cheshunt in Ryman League division one north this Saturday.

A 90th minute goal from Grays Athletic substitute Joao Carlos consigned Harlow to defeat on Tuesday and the Hawks remain in 20th spot.

However, Chapman said: "Cheshunt have brought in some good signings and they will be tough. We have not got the results we have deserved.

"If we play like we did against

HARLOW TN 1, GRAYS ATH 2
RYMAN LEAGUE,
DIVISION ONE NORTH

Grays we can win all our remaining games this season."

Neither keeper had to make a serious save in the first half. Shamir Mullings was too tentative in the 18th minute when he tried to push a ball through for Karel Harvey instead of shooting.

The hosts were relieved when former Harlow forward Jeff Hammond controlled direct from a goal kick in the Harlow box but could not get a shot off.

Both teams enjoyed good moments before the Hawks finally broke the deadlock in the 67th minute.

A ball fell loose and Wixon's dipping 25-yard shot flew over Grays keeper George Kamarasi and into the net.

Chapman enthused: "It was a great strike and even if he had not scored he was still our best player with his movement and passing."

Top of table Grays equalised in the 76th minute.

A loose ball was fired home by Grays substitute Jared Small from the left side of the goal into the far corner.
